

California Proposition 65

Safe Drinking Water and Toxic Enforcement Act of 1986

General declaration

California Proposition 65 is officially known as the Safe Drinking Water and Toxic Enforcement Act of 1986. The proposition protects the state's drinking water sources from being contaminated with chemicals known to cause cancer, cause birth defects or cause other reproductive harm.

Proposition 65 requires businesses to notify Californians about significant amounts of chemicals in the products they purchase, in their homes or workplaces, or that are released into the environment. By providing this information, Proposition 65 enables Californians to make informed decisions about protecting themselves from exposure to these chemicals. Proposition 65 also prohibits California businesses from knowingly discharging significant amounts of listed chemicals into sources of drinking water.

The list, which is updated at least once a year, has grown to over 1000 chemicals since it was first published in 1987. For more information, visit: <https://www.p65warnings.ca.gov/>.

We remind you that Elproman AB does not perform laboratory tests to verify the possible presence in our cables and components of the chemicals in Proposition 65. This declaration is founded on safety data sheets, data sheets and declarations received from our suppliers.

Elproman AB does not control or have complete knowledge of the end uses to which you or your customers put our materials. Therefore the decision to include or not include a Proposition 65 notice must ultimately rest with your company and your customers.

If there are product-specific exceptions or additions, these are taken into individual agreements with the customer.
